

WRECKING STONE

Pastor Steven L. Shelley · February 26, 2005

Jerusalem, Israel

As we were worshiping the Lord just then, I saw in vision a stone, a rock that was smooth on all sides, smooth around the edges, no jagged places. But I saw it falling from the top of a great mountain. And I saw it beginning to roll down the mountain, even like Daniel saw in the Spirit. And I saw that stone as it began to roll down the mountain a strange thing happened, almost like it would have been a snowball instead of a stone because it was getting larger and larger as it tumbled end to end.

It was growing in size and in strength, in speed, as it began to accelerate itself down this mountain. And as it began to come toward the bottom of the mountain and began to roll out into a plain, I saw great towers that had been lifted up. Some of them seemed to be hand-carved from what looked like ivory.

And I saw some that looked almost like the Eiffel Tower, something like the Eiffel Tower or the Leaning Tower of Pisa. I saw all of these different... even what appeared like the Washington Monument. But I saw that this stone was striking these monuments or towers in the valley. It was striking each and every one of them. And to say it carnally, it was bowling them over like a bowling ball against the pins.

It was directed by the Spirit. And that's what God's doing, adding the missing pieces to the watch.
